Course Name: Honors English III	Grade Level(s): 11
Department: English	Credits: 5
BOE Adoption Date: October 2017	Revision Date(s): October 2019

ABSTRACT

In Honors English 11, the students will closely and critically read complex works of literature, including fiction and nonfiction texts. In writing and through class discussions, students will interpret what they read and present analysis based on appropriate examples and evidence from the text. They will assess the strength of a writer's claim based on evidence from the text. Additionally, students will expand their literary and cultural knowledge by reading great classic and contemporary works representative of various time periods and cultures. The students will develop the skill, fluency, and concentration to produce high-quality writing, including opportunities to improve their writing through revision. Writing tasks include literary analysis, research paper, creative writing, narrative, and argument essay. The students will apply a greater depth of knowledge and sophistication in their analyses. The students will continue to learn and apply the rules of standard written English and to strengthen and expand their vocabulary, use of language, and sophistication in the development and organization of ideas.

Mission Statement

The Kingsway Regional School District believes that this school district is responsible for developing and maintaining a comprehensive educational program that will foster the academic, social, and personal growth of all students. The Kingsway Regional School District provides a secure, supportive environment. It also provides high quality resources to challenge and empower each individual to pursue his/her potential, to develop a passion for learning in a diverse and challenging world, to encourage active citizenship, and to reach a high standard of achievement at all grade levels as defined by the New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLS).

Curriculum & Instruction Goals

To ensure the District continues to work toward its mission of excellence in G.R.E.A.T. Instruction, the following curriculum and instruction goals direct the conversation:

Goal(s):

1. To ensure students are college and career ready upon graduation
2. To vertically and horizontally align curriculum K-12 to ensure successful transition of students at each grade level
3. To identify individual student strengths and weaknesses utilizing various assessment measures (formative, summative, alternative, etc.) so as to differentiate instruction while meeting the rigor of the applicable content standards
4. To improve student achievement as assessed through multiple measures including, but not limited to, state testing, local assessments, and ongoing progress monitoring

How to Read this Document

This curricular document contains both pacing guides and curriculum units. The pacing guides serve to communicate an estimated timeframe as to when skills and topics will be taught throughout the year. The pacing, however, may differ slightly depending upon the unique needs of each learner. The curriculum units contain more detailed information as to the content, goals, and objectives of the course well as how students will be assessed. The terms and definitions below will assist the reader to better understand the sections and components of this curriculum document.

Terms to Know

1. Accommodation(s): Accommodations are adaptations that do not alter the learning goal or standards being measured; accommodations can be for all students.

2. Differentiated Instruction (DI): The idea of differentiating instruction to accommodate the different ways that students learn involves a hefty dose of common sense, as well as sturdy support in the theory and research of education (Tomlinson & Allan, 2000). It is an approach to teaching that advocates active planning for student differences in classrooms. Teachers can differentiate content, process, product, or environment. DI can be done according to students' readiness, interest, or learning profile.
3. Enduring Understanding: Enduring understandings (aka big ideas) are statements of understanding that articulate deep conceptual understandings at the heart of each content area. Enduring understandings are noted in the alongside essential questions within each unit in this document.
4. Essential Question: These are questions whose purpose is to stimulate thought, to provoke inquiry, and to spark more questions. They extend beyond a single lesson or unit. Essential questions are noted in the beginning of each unit in this document.
5. Formative Assessments: Formative assessments monitor student learning to provide ongoing feedback that can be used by (1) instructors to improve teaching and (2) by students to improve their learning. Formative assessments help identify students' strengths and weaknesses and address problems immediately.
6. Learning Activity(s): Learning activities are those activities that take place in the classroom for which the teacher facilitates and the students participate in to ensure active engagement in the learning process. (Robert J. Marzano, The Art and Science of Teaching)
7. Learning Assignment(s): Learning assignments are those activities that take place independently by the student inside the classroom or outside the classroom (i.e. homework) to extend concepts and skills within a lesson.
8. Learning Goal(s): Learning goals are broad statements that note what students "should know" and/or "be able to do" as they progress through a unit. Learning goals correlate specifically to the NJSLs noted within each unit.
9. Learning Objective(s): Learning objectives are more specific skills and concepts that students must achieve as they progress towards the broader learning goal. These are included within each unit and are assessed frequently by the teacher to ensure students are progressing appropriately.
10. Modification(s): Modifications are adaptations that alter the learning goals and grade-level standards. Modifications are warranted when the learner has significant needs that impede his or her ability to access grade-level concepts. They are most appropriate for appropriate some students with IEPs and some English Language Learners.

11. Performance Assessments: (aka alternative or authentic assessments) Performance assessments are a form of assessment that requires students to perform tasks that generate a more authentic evaluation of a student’s knowledge, skills, and abilities. Performance assessments stress the application of knowledge and extend beyond traditional assessments (i.e. multiple-choice question, matching, true & false, etc.).
12. Standards: Academic standards, from which the curriculum is built, are statements that of what students “should know” or “be able to do” upon completion of a grade-level or course of study. Educational standards help teachers ensure their students have the skills and knowledge they need to be successful by providing clear goals for student learning.
  - State: The New Jersey Student Learning Standards (NJSLSs) include Preschool Teaching and Learning Standards as well as K-12 standards for: Visual and Performing Arts; Comprehensive Health and Physical Education; Science; Social Studies; World Languages; Technology; 21st-Century Life and Careers; Language Arts Literacy; and, Mathematics
13. Summative Assessments: Summative assessments evaluate student learning at the end of an instructional time period by comparing it against some standard or benchmark. Information from summative assessments can be used formatively when students or faculty use it to guide their efforts and activities in subsequent courses.
14. 21st Century Skills & Themes: These elements emphasize the growing need to focus on skills that prepare students to successfully compete in a global environment by focusing on the following: learning and innovation skills; information, media and technology skills; and life and career skills. These concepts are embedded in each unit of the curriculum.

Unit 1: Short Story Boot Camp	Recommended Duration: 7 weeks
Unit Description: This student-centered unit will expose the short story genre and the ways in which authors convey theme through literary devices. Through modeling and practice, students will gradually develop independence in their investigations of a) how short story authors convey meaning through literary devices as well as b) the role an author’s cultural experience has on the text. The unit pacing, the independence with which students will explore the short story genre, and the reading and analytical intensity of the unit reflects a “Boot Camp” like experience. Ultimately, students will collaborate to plan and teach lessons through which they facilitate discussions of how authors employ literary devices to develop theme.

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Why do we read fiction?</li> <li>How does the cultural experience of an author impact a text?</li> <li>How do authors use literary devices to create meaning?</li> <li>What does theme reveal about human nature?</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Reading fiction expands understanding of the world, its people and oneself.</li> <li>Exploring the historical context of an author’s experience allows for greater comprehension of an author’s message to his/her audience.</li> <li>Literary devices assist authors in the development of their stories to convey their messages to an audience through ease and engagement.</li> <li>The development of theme aids authors in the demonstration of a universal experience, thereby revealing common character traits.</li> </ol>

Unit 2: Novel Study	Recommended Duration: 7 weeks
Unit Description: This student-centered unit will introduce critical theory as a means of deeply analyzing a text. To preview unit, students will share background knowledge of provided issues of the era reflected in the text, followed by a playlist of documentary clips depicting these issues. Then, using a Web Quest, students will research critical theory and choose a literary theory to apply to the text. Through the use of a literary lens folder, students will create and organize concepts and essential questions that will inform their analyses of the text. Routinely, they will engage in Theory Talks in both heterogeneous and homogenous groups, ultimately resulting in a research-based literary analysis of the text.

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Why do we read fiction?</li> <li>2. How does the cultural experience of an author impact a text?</li> <li>3. How do authors use literary devices to create meaning?</li> <li>4. What does theme reveal about human nature?</li> <li>5. What is the American Dream, and how is it perceived by various natures or cultures?</li> <li>6. How does the inclusion of Critical Theory inform deeper meaning of a text?</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. Reading fiction expands understanding of the world, its people and oneself.</li> <li>2. Exploring the historical context of an author’s experience allows for greater comprehension of an author’s message to his/her audience.</li> <li>3. Literary devices assist authors in the development of their stories to convey their messages to an audience through ease and engagement.</li> <li>4. The development of theme aids authors in the demonstration of a universal experience, thereby revealing common character traits.</li> <li>5. The American Dream is not universal, for it embraces various intangibles and tangibles dependent upon various natures or cultures. For one, the American Dream may be freedom from religious persecution or opportunity for education or vocation. For others, it may signify the acquisition of material items, such as a home or car. Further still, the American Dream may be “dead” or inaccessible, leaving those who pursue it desolate and disillusioned.</li> </ol>

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
	6. The exploration and application of critical theory in the close reading of a text allows readers to investigate the author’s ideology of societal conventions and aberrations. It transforms the literature from a superficial understanding to a deeper comprehension of not only the text and the author but also the reader’s self-awareness.

Unit 3: Rhetoric	Recommended Duration: 7 weeks

Unit Description:
 In this unit, students will progress through U.S. seminal documents using the SOAPStone method of analysis. Through this method, students will unearth a speaker’s purpose in utilizing rhetoric, thereby discovering distinct voices that served in the progressive changes of the United States. Finally, students will compose a rhetorical analysis, demonstrating their ability to distinguish a speaker’s claim and resultant use of persuasive techniques.

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>How do readers construct meaning from complex texts?</li> <li>For what purpose is rhetoric utilized?</li> <li>How can people recognize the use of rhetoric and avoid its manipulative techniques?</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>Delving deep into a text allows for greater comprehension of meaning. Annotation is a vehicle for close reading, allowing readers to investigate the nuances and layers of meaning within a text.</li> <li>Rhetoric’s purposes to persuade audiences to “buy into” beliefs, purchase products, and support candidates, to name a few, demonstrate the power of rhetoric’s appeals. Changes in policy and law, such as human rights’ advancements, demonstrate the use of rhetoric in government.</li> <li>The exploration of a writer’s or speaker’s personal agenda allows readers and listeners to query the purpose of the rhetoric and “see through” the facade to the writer’s/speaker’s intent.</li> </ol>

Unit 4: Drama	Recommended Duration: 7 weeks

Unit Description:
In this performance-based unit, students will research the historical context of the drama. Their research will inform their comprehension of the author's motive to expose injustice in the lives of United States citizens, bringing history to life through collaborative performance. Students will fulfill roles necessary to produce a dramatic scene. To conclude, students will discover a piece of literature (ie. novel or film, possibly global) that addresses injustice and compare the causes and effects of the injustice upon the characters.

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>How is historic, cultural, economic, religious, or an ethical aspect of a society reflected in a drama?</li> <li>How does drama differ from other literary genres?</li> <li>How does modern drama differ from earlier drama (ie. Shakespeare)?</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>As the short story or novel reflects an author's experience, a drama also reveals the influence of historical context on an author's work. For instance, in The Crucible, Arthur Miller utilizes the drama as a vehicle to expose the deleterious effects of corruption and prejudice through the hysteria of the Red Scare and the Salem Witch Trials.</li> <li>Although similar structure and craft, a novel and a drama differ in their presentations. A novel is a solitary, bilateral experience between the author and reader. However, a drama is a shared experience often involving a multitude of professionals (i.e. directors, technicians, actors, costumers, set designers) to produce one cohesive vision in a performance of dialogue.</li> <li>Interestingly, the similarities greatly outweigh the contrasts. The human condition is constant. The differences of a modern drama are simply that certain technologies (i.e. cars or guns) exist.</li> </ol>

Unit 5: Poetry	Recommended Duration: 7 weeks
Unit Description:          In this response-based unit, students will reflect on their impressions of the spoken word and analyze poetry through the use of a journal. Students will refine their annotation skills as they deconstruct poems written by celebrated American poets. Through small- and whole-group discussions, students will share their responses to spoken word performances. Then, students will compose a poem for an individual reader or a classroom audience.

Essential Questions:	Enduring Understandings:
<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. In what ways do writers convey meaning differently through poetry as compared to other genres?</li> <li>2. What is the difference between the speaker in the poem and the poet?</li> <li>3. What strategies can we use to understand poetry?</li> <li>4. How does performance affect the meaning of the written word in a poem?</li> </ol>	<ol style="list-style-type: none"> <li>1. In comparison to other genres, writers pay more attention to concision, as well as the structure of ideas and images. Poets place more emphasis on the omission of words rather than the inclusion of superfluous details. Poets craft their poems with intentional care to every syllable and word to line length and, sometimes, typography. Although some poems of considerable length exist, such as Homer’s The Odyssey or Ginsberg’s “Howl” or Eliot’s “The Wasteland,” poets focus on rhythm, eliciting a musicality not necessarily present in prose.</li> <li>2. For some poets, as with novelists, the poem’s speaker is a persona rather than a deliberate representation of the creator. However, for many poets, the poem’s voice is theirs, reflected in their shared life experiences. It is a voice more apt to transparent vulnerability than disguised solidarity with one’s audience.</li> <li>3. Poetry is best understood through close reading and annotation skills. Deconstructing a poem to its individual stanzas, defining unknown vocabulary, deciphering figurative language, or paraphrasing each line, allows the reader to comprehend the message the poet wishes to impart.</li> <li>4. Just as a drama engages the audience in a shared sensory experience, the spoken word elicits a more powerfully shared response with an audience than a solitary reading of the written word.</li> </ol>
